Things I would have never considered when trying to get into the business of selling my photography... ~ Great OutPut (blog): News, ideas, and resources for photographers Get Started! The author spent thousands of dollars getting started selling his work in a few venues. Unfortunately, most of that amount was wasted because at the time he didnt understand the business. He invested in the wrong frames, mats, glass, etc. Like Murphys Law, everything that could go wrong, did - in spite of his research. To his frustration, he was unable to find the answers to some fairly basic questions, and made rookie mistakes: buying poor quality materials, and paying someone to do the work he could have done himself, (if hed only known how). He wrote this book to chronicle his experience for others whod like to get their images out into the marketplace, generating income. It will quickly and easily pay for itself - and if, for any reason, you are not satisfied, hell refund your money, no questions asked. About the Author A photographer and consultant by trade, Eric has been in many well-regarded galleries in Northern California. Hes been down this road before, and shares his knowledge of what it takes to sell your favorite images.
