

Chiang Mais Beautiful Craft Making Traditions

This book is a collection of stories and highlights regarding the production sites of handcrafted products of Chiang Mai. Some sites are centuries-old, while others are several decades-old, but evidently show a tie to traditional practices. The crafts contain a folksy touch as well as a refined taste. Woven fabric, embroidered blouses, bamboo basketry, silverware, and carved wood have represented the culture and heritage of the locals of Chiang Mai. In addition to being beautiful symbols of the North, Chiang Mais crafts have become major factors in boosting the socioeconomic status of the second-largest city of the Kingdom of Thailand. The artisans behind the crafts inherited their traditions and skills from their ancestors, who came from various ethnic groups including Tai Yuan, Tai Lue, and Tai Kern. Thanks to cherishing and respecting their ancestral wisdom, members of the current generation put forth continuous effort to develop and prolong the craft making. The local artisans behave and speak in a humble and modest manner, yet at the same time are highly proud of their cultural practices. Knowing that their products are in high demand - whether in the form of wholesales or single individualized items - they are eager for opportunities to express their virtues. Hopefully, this book provides craft and cultural connoisseurs with a glimpse into the lives and thoughts of Chiang Mais artisans.
