

Life Divine

The difference between passion and obsession is acceptance. Like the music he loves, there are highs and lows in this particular year of Harry Jones life as the bitter-sweet comedy unfolds. The brass band he conducts is enjoying more success than ever, while the Jones household is a different story. As his two children suddenly find their destinies approaching faster than either of them could have imagined, his wife also finds herself wondering if she should in fact be dancing to a different tune.
