

Capital Crimes: Murder in the Supreme Court; Murder in the CIA; Murder in the House

Set throughout our nations political power center, the compelling, intriguing stories from former first daughter and master storyteller Margaret Truman have delighted legions of fans. Now in one thrilling volume, here are three classic suspense novels in the acclaimed Capital Crimes series. MURDER IN THE SUPREME COURT Clarence Sutherland, head clerk to the Chief Justice, is found murdered in the courtroom, sitting in his boss's chair with a hole in his head. Who would want to kill such a bright young man? The answer: practically everybody. Truman's hints as to the real state of Washington are terrifyingly true. MURDER IN THE CIA When literary agent Barrie Mayer dies from what looks like a heart attack at London's Heathrow Airport, her best friend, CIA agent Collette Cahill, is ordered to discover the truth and to find Barrie's missing briefcase. [Truman] invades the turf of John le Carre... [Murder in the CIA] is very good. MURDER IN THE HOUSE Congressman Paul Latham died clutching a 9-mm pistol, and one man suspects the shattering truth: The suicide was a carefully planned murder which will prove to be part of a chilling conspiracy that reaches halfway around the world. Truman knows the forks in the nations capital and how to pitchfork her readers into a web of murder and detection. The Christian Science Monitor
